from the southside, and fled the score. In the tenth inning Swift, Manchester's second baseman, biffed on to right for three bags, but could not reach home, Elmore putting an easy one to second and retring the side, Again in the eleventh it looked good for the Colts, Leake led with a safe one and Hogan drew transportation to the initial sack. Jennings sacrificed nicely, advancing Leake to third and Hogan to second. Jack Anthony sent one in the atmosphere and Rose, at third, got under it. Albert Anthony pasted one squarely on the nose, and it went like a shot at Hogan, the pitcher. It was impossible for the twirler to move, and he just stuck out his hand and held the buil, The side retired with Leake on third. It was one, two, three with the Colts in their half of the twelfth inning.

Smith opened the last round for the champions. He was out to first from third and Huicher drew a pass to first. McLeavy was hit a terribbe blow, and was out of commission for a while. He was allowed a runner, and Huicher was advanced to second. Bowers got a Uelders choice, advancing Huicher to hird and killing McLeavy on second. Rose sent one down to short, and it wasn't handled. Sharp drove one to second, and it was handled to first, but liulcher was splking the rubber. The game ended as soon as the runner came over the plate.

Leake allowed three bits in the first from the southside, and fied the score In the tenth inning Swift, Mancheste Leake allowed three hits in the Brist inning and four runs came over. Bow-ers led with a clean single. Rose got a complimentary and Sharp pasted a sin-gle. Eacho sent one down to third, and it wasn't handled, and the bad play Bowers and Rose scored. Hogan sent it wasn't handled, and the had play Bowers and Rose scored. Hogan sent more to deep center, and Sharp scored after the hall was caught. Gruner went out to left, Smith spiked a good'one and Hulcher retired the side by making the right garden man worl.

The first game was not one that could be called fast, but with it all there was plenty of excitement, for the ball was bit often enough.

Twelve men faced Crawford in the third inning of the Hichmond-Barton Heights game. Taylor was at bat twice and scored two runs. Shelton in right field dropped a fly that should have been handled and a double play made. This was the beginning of the and, and when Crawford let a little one get through him, some more runs came in. Taylor led of by getting four balls. Brooks sent one down to short, and it wasn't handled in time to take care of Taylor at second. Both men were given life. Bache dropped a little one down to Crawford, and it wasn't handled. With the bases full. Boone sent one out to right. The runner on second had left the hase, and a double could easily have been made. But Shelton dropped the ball. Phillips got life on an error, and then Mills smacked one for three bags. then Mills smacked one for three bags. Tritton looked over four of them, Booker punched, and Knowles got a pass. Taylor came to bat for the second time in the inning. He made a single, and more runs came across. Brooks, for the second time, was at bat. "He went out to second, and Bache fanned. Nine runs had been made, and there were only two hits, one a single and the other a three-bagger.

Soft, graceful materials were most universally chosen, and there were no elaborate tollets.

So far as the men were concerned, it was a white hat Goodwood.

The King set this fashion some time ago and upheld it this week, his example being so closely followed that even the popular Panama had disappeared.

Queen There, Too.

Everybody was surprised and pleased to see Queen Alexandra accompany the King to the races three days in succession, for never before has she attended any race meeting on two consecutive days but on this occasion Goodwood House, where the King and Queen are stopping, as the guests of the Duke of Richmond, was so near the course that the journey can be accomplished without the least fatigue. Any way, the Queen was looking as young and handsome as ever an appeared in excellent health and spirits. So was the King, who appeared most coergetic, never being at rest for many minutes at a time in one place.

In one respect it was noted that Goodwood differed very much from last year, and that was in the paucity of American visitors present. Never were they so conspicuous by their absence.
